

The pairings for this round, current status of each game, and a link to each game are now posted on http://www.gameaholics.com/adv_tournament.htm. I encourage you to check this page for status in the tournament every so often.

I will send the pairings for the next round out one week from yesterday (Monday). If you don't get the email, you can check the site above to find the pairings. But whether or not you get the email, it will have been sent. Don't get left out of the action by virtue of an internet email error! If you didn't already know that the next round's pairings would be sent this coming Monday, please refresh your memory of the format at http://www.gameaholics.com/adv_format.htm. Naturally, all of the pages are linked.

I remind everyone that you're expected to log in once per day and make moves in any waiting games – except when you've told SpielByWeb you're on vacation (using the "Going Away?" option in the upper right).

Have fun!

John